Toshinori Kondo x Naoko Tosa Cultural Computing: ZENetic Computer LIVE

<What is Cultural Computing: ZENetic Computer >
I Wanted to Have a Computer do Zazen
(Training a machine in the way of Zen)
There is no "hesitation" in a computer. The scheduled communications proceed as if the machine knows exactly what it is doing. However, human conays hesitate. They are constantly wavering. (continued overleaf)

Sansui ink painting: A result of Cultural Computing which treat Japanese cultural spirits such as Wabi and Sabi, Downloadable Software for I-Phone, supervised by Media Artist Prof. Naoko Tosa

Description

Sansui is a style of Japanese ink painting that usually depicts landscapes, using the juxtaposition of black ink and white paper and empty space to create striking yet peaceful works.

The style dates back to 5th century China, later making its way to Japan. In Sansui Ink Painting, you can create Sansui paintings, or Sansuiga, with ease, simply by arranging items on the screen. The scene can then be animated, accompanied by soothing traditional music.

This game-meets-interactive art experience was informed and guided by Japanese media artist and Professor Naoko Tosa, helping users create appealing and accurate sansui paintings every time.
